

O, Gabriella

Carsie Blanton

Intro

A E

Verse

A E

Lying awake in the blue of her bedroom, he knew very well that he wasn't the first
Wearing the smile of a debutante's daughter, wearing that dress just as subtle as sin

A E A

Don't say he's the best he will never believe you, just say Gabriella, he wasn't the worst
He came to her like a lamb to the slaughter and Oh, Gabriella, he'd do it again

Chorus

D A E

Suddenly foolish at five in the morning but he was no fool when he followed her home
He's in no hurry to come to his senses cause he went so gently into that good night

D A E

every move that she made was a warning, the grace of a woman who's happy alone out with the evening went all his defenses, saying "here is my heart do whatever you like."

1st ending

1. A

2nd ending

2. A E

Verse 3

A TACET E

Dawn in the garden the bird's are all singing and conjuring up the regrets of the night the Sun is a reprimand, mourning is bringing but baptizing both of their bodies in light

A E A

35 D A E

Chorus

She is a glory of sleepy irreverence, he is a leaf at the dawn of the fall

39 D A E A

But don't say you're sorry he'll never believe you, oh Gabriella say nothing at all

43 A E A

Oh, Gabriella say nothing at all